MAGNET RECOGNITION PROGRAM® – SITE VISIT

What is Magnet and why is Magnet important?

- ANCC Magnet Recognition Program® is the highest credential a healthcare organization can achieve. It acknowledges the invaluable contributions of nurses in all healthcare settings and among all populations around the world.
- Magnet designation is an indication to patients and the public that these organizations have met the most stringent, evidence-based standards of nursing excellence in patient care delivery. It is a results-driven recognition that fosters nurse engagement, and the role nurses play as members of the interprofessional team to improve patient outcomes and reduce healthcare costs.
- Baylor Scott & White All Saints Medical Center Fort Worth was designated as a Magnet organization in 2020 by the ANCC Magnet Recognition Program®. This prestigious designation recognizes excellence in nursing services. In January 2025, Baylor Scott & White All Saints Medical Center Fort Worth is applying for redesignation.
- Patients, family members, staff, and interested parties who would like to provide comments are encouraged to do so. Anyone may send comments via e-mail and direct mail.
